

The Atlantic Room

Situated on the first floor of the original 19th Century Magherabuoy House, the Atlantic room enjoys lots of natural light with three feature windows, and has views extending across Portrush peninsula to the Western Isles of Scotland. The room offers an ideal setting for meetings and is an excellent space for exhibitions.

The Atlantic Room

This room is so-named because of the views it offers over the town of Portrush, and beyond across the North Atlantic. It can be set up in a variety of layouts, depending on your needs and is across the landing from Seaview and upstairs from the Sir Dawson Bates room.
